The Chicago Carpenters' Strike-Several Fights and Some Dissatisfaction Manifested.

Indianapolis Stone Cutters Throw Down Their Tools-The Color Line in the Cotton Handlers' Strike.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 9.—The coal miners throughout the country are discussing the formation of one gigantic organization by the amalgamation of the National Federation of Miners and the Miners' National Assembly of the Knights of Labor. Heretofore considerable jealousy has been manifested between the members of the two organizations, but lately the officials have shown a disposition to agree upon a plan for mutual benefit. At a recent meeting of the executive board of the Federation of Miners a resolution asking for a conference with the executive board of the Miners' Assembly was adopted. The plan of federation is that the two executive boards shall meet and devise a set of rules or laws for the government of mining affairs. These laws are to provide for representa-tion from both the open and secret branches of the organization. No person is to serve as officer unless he becomes a member of the Knights of Labor. It is understood that the idea is to have the federation still retain its organization, with the understanding that all its members shall be Knights of Labor. This will also likely bring all the outside Knights into the federation. The union members would then belong to both organizations. It is likely that Knights of Labor members will agree

CHICAGO CARPENTERS. CHICAGO, April 9.—The hall of the strik-ing union carpenters, on Fifth avenue, has been crowded all day with the strikers. A number of contractors visited the hall during the day and sought to engage men to help them out on important work, but their appeals were invariably denied. The strikers declare that they will remain out until their union is recognized. The car-penters claim that 260 bosses have expressed a willingness to give in, and that only about 140 are opposed to the concession. The carpenters claim that the strike will soon end. It is thought that the meeting of master carpenters to be held at the Builders' Exchange to-day may settle the matter. Figuts between strikers and imported carpenters occurred in many parts of the city yesterday. The strikers, in almost every case, managed to clude the police. Non-union men were compelled to quit work in a number of instances, especially in the outskirts of the city. Nine strikers were arrested at the corner of Jackson and Clinton streets, where they attempted to in-duce men employed on Warren Springer's tall structure to quit work. No violence had occurred, and the prisoners claim that their arrest was wholly unwarranted. Shots were exchanged between policemen and strikers near Humboldt park. Scabs were found at work by one of the committees, and President Kliver, of the Carpenters' Council. They were requested to quit. Suddenly a patrol wagon loaded with policemen came along and firing began on both sides. The shots were fired in the air and nobody was arrested. The Knights of Labor element among the strikers are not at all satisfied with the way matters are being conflucted by the Carpenters' Coun-

Indianapolis, Ind., April 9.-About 200 one cutters employed in the various yards of the city threw down their tools yesterday morning and refused to work until an increase of from thirty-five to forty-five cents an hour is granted. Last evening the employers determined not to grant the increase under any circumstances.

THE COTTON HANDLERS.

NEW ORLEANS, April 9.—The strike of the cotton handlers still continues, but a con-ference of all the parties will be held to-day with a view to adjusting the troubles existing between the old and new councils. At a meeting to-day of delegates from all the organizations composing the cotton councils, the old council (colored), de-manded that half of all the work done in this city by cotton handlers, be given to colored men. This demand was not acceded to.

BELL'S CONFESSION.

NEBRASKA CITT, Neb., April 9.—In the train-wreckers' trial yesterday there was considerable of a sensation when Bell, one of the accused, mounted the witness stand and confessed that he and Hoffman were the guilty parties, laying the blame on Hoffman, however. Detective Frank Tutt, of Kansas City, met the defendant January 13 in the Grand Pacific Hotel, when Hoffman made a voluntary confession, which was read to him in the presence of Boil, and he signed it be fore other witnesses. There were no inducements, force or threats used. Afte Hoffman got started he to wrecking without any hitch. told about the nesses of the confession. Bell was called to the witness stand and turned State's evidence. He said that be was in Dunbar the day of the wreek on business, got drunk and was arrested and fined. He appealed to Hoffman who was present for money to pay the fine. He said he did not have any, but would have enough the next day. Bell put up his team as se-curity for the fine, followed Hoffman around towa and drank considerable, but Hoffman did not. Hoffman asked witness to go along down the railroad track and defendant broke open the tool house, secured a crow bar and wrenches, and both pro-ceeded up the Missouri Pacific track and arrived at the place where the wreck oc-curred. Witness sat on the track and Hoffman proceeded to remove the rails. ness asked him what he was doing and Hoff-man replied that he was going to wreck a train and rob the express car. Witness re-monstrated, saying many people would get killed. Hoffman said he did not give a as he had made up his mind to it and would carry it out. Witness saw Hoffman remove the spikes and rails and saw the train apching, when Hoffman pulled him down in the ravine. When the train jumped the track both ran.

The defense tried hard to break down Bell, but he told a straight story and would

THE WHITE LADY.

A Specter Whose Appearance Foretells the Death of a Hapsburg. The Vicomte d'Arlincourt tells us that he visited the Archduchess Marie Louise, the widow of Napoleon, and from her lips heard that the White Lady never fails to appear in the Imperial Palace of Vienna before the death of one of the House of Austria. She told him: "My grandmother was Queen of the Sicilies, and after the death of my father's first wife (Elizabeth Wilhelmina, daughter of Duke Frederick Eugene of Wurtemberg, died February 18, 1790), he asked for the hand of her daughter (Maria Theresa, daughter of Ferdinand I., of Sicily). My grandmother, anxious about her daughter's welfare, consulted a pious nun, to whom it was allowed at times to see through the veil of the future. Her answer was as follows: 'Your daughter will be happy; but after she has passed her thirty-fifth year God will call her to Himself.' This was clear enough. The new Empress ascended the throne (she was married 1790 at the age of eighteen) in the expectation of having a short but happy life. She often spoke to her young children about it, but never complained that the term was short. Thirty-five years! She had a long time yet. Alas! time flies very fast. The nearer the ominous term drew, the more did the Empress endeavor to banish the thought of it from her mind. She ceased to speak of it. In the year that preceded her death, a very heavy sickness brought her into great peril. 'Be at ease,' said her Majesty to those who surrounded her, 'my hour is not yet come. If heaven calls me, it will be next year.' "Her five-and-thirtieth year arrived.

One day my sister, the late Empress of Brazil, exclaimed in terror to her mother, 'Behind your elbow-chair, I - I see-

SET THE BOYS TO WORK. A Good Way of Developing Industrious Habits in Children.

Don't bring up your boy to think that is of no use. Set him to work. Give him a hammer and a few nails or tacks and let him mend up any thing that requires a nail or two. Never mind if he does split the wood and jam his fingers. He will soon learn better. You want some hinges put on a box; let him try a hand at it. If a rat hole in the floor requires fastening up, he can cut out a bit of tin from an old oyster can and tack it over the hole as well as a man can do it. Let him bank up the cellar window, or mend the kitchen window glass. Let him measure for the glass and get the putty. Show him once how to take out the old putty with a hot knife, how to work up the new putty with a drop of kerosene oil, and he will do it the next time himself. Encourage him to do the repairs about the house. Let him see that you feel proud of what he can do. Don't think the trouble not worth the trying, or let the muss he makes discourage you from letting him try. If you wish your boy to be manly and independent, help to make him so by encouraging him to be useful and handy when young .- Detroit Tribune.
